Imagine that... venturing down from the hills, lush farm lands behind you, Pohutukawa infused Native bush sprawling north to the Coromandel Peninsular, and there, before your very eyes... the sparkling Pacific Ocean awaits, crashing on to a 10km stretch of white sandy beach, a steadfast Mayor Island on the horizon guarding the Bay of Plenty.

Spectacular New Zealand locations do exist and Waihi Beach is one of them. Just 11km from Waihi, this is a best kept secret everyone should set aside time to visit.

There is a real sense of community about Waihi Beach, the locals really look after visitors to the area, sharing their secrets and recommending local businesses.

Waihi Beach is one of the safest surf beaches to learn to surf in the world which is probably why the population octuples in summer. Waihi Beach Surf Club and Coastguard operate 'Swim between the Flags' during the summer months providing a safer area for swimmers, with the local surf school giving lessons for those wanting to get amongst the waves.

Opposite the Waihi Beach Hotel (Pub) you'll find the Waihi Beach Fresh Produce Market. The market operates every Sunday, 9am – 12 noon during the summer months (labour weekend till easter). With a great selection of fresh, locally grown fruit and vege, baked goods, including gluten free, fresh dips & spreads and arts and crafts, there's plenty for everyone.

The coastal walk from the north of Waihi Beach to Orokawa Bay, a 90-minute round trip which is well worth the effort. Orokawa Bay is a scenic reserve with 145 hectares of native bush containing native kauri and puriri trees.

At the halfway point, walkers arrive at picturesque and secluded Orokawa beach, perfect for relaxing, fishing or for picnicking beneath the over-hanging pohutukawa trees.

For the more adventurous, the William Wright Falls is roughly 1.5 kilometres inland from Orokawa Bay and spills over a 28-metre sheer rock face.

Good coffee is very easy to find in the area with a dozen eateries within a 1.5km radius of the beach shopping area. From beach side to street side and up to the top of the hill there's a vista for everyone and dining options to suit all budgets.

Absolute beachfront, luxury accommodation, at one of the most beautiful stretches of east coast in New Zealand – Waihi Beach

“When you truly love the paradise you live in, it is a wonderful feeling to share it. Four generations of my family have holidayed here at Waihi Beach, and I am passionate about the feel good nature of this special place”.

Farm Gate Deli and Kitchen is an exciting new delicatessen in the centre of Waihi Beach Village, providing healthy, nutritious food and cook's ingredients - the business has been created by local residents Janet Edmond and Joanne Curd.

In March 2005 Andy Kennedy brought an underdeveloped beachfront cafe called Flatwhite. Andy's premise was that with the right offerings people will come; and they do, 364 days a year for breakfast, lunch and dinner.
