Readings for this week: Num 11:25-29 Jas 5:1-6 Mark 9:38-43, 45, 47-48

The First Reading and Gospel for today speak of a desire for exclusivity and control on the part of disciples. Joshua says to Moses: "My lord Moses, stop them!" (Num 11: 28) and the John tells Jesus: "Teacher, we saw someone casting out demons in your name, and we tried to stop him, because he was not following us." (Mk 9: 38)

On both occasions the response is to allow or the grace of God to be given free rein. The Church is a sign and sacrament of salvation rather than some kind of spiritual Fort Knox. We have the duty of safeguarding the deposit of faith so that all people can benefit from it knowing that what we believe and teach is the authentic Gospel message.

It remains that we are always called to cooperate with grace and not control it or set limits to its effects.

As Catholics we often need to turn the other cheek or forgive past slights or wrongs so that we bring others closer to Christ even when they have previously rejected the Church and her teachings. Heaven forbid that we find ourselves in the same position as the elder brother in the parable of the prodigal Son!

After all: "You received without payment; give without payment." (Mtt 10: 8)

Fr Marcus

TWENTY-SEVENTH SUNDAY OF THE YEAR

Next weeks readings: Genesis 2:18-24 Hebrews 2:9-11 Mark 10:2-18

At the beginning of next week's Gospel reading you'll find the Pharisees asking Jesus about divorce – "Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife?" Jesus doesn't give a direct 'yes or 'no'. Instead he talks to them about his vision for marriage as a communion of faithful love.

The first reading gives the grounding for that vision in God's creation of man and woman as equal, 'indispensible partners' interacting with a mutuality and equality that finds its fullest expression in marriage – "God made them male and female. For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife and the two shall become one flesh".

However, the Book of Deuteronomy sets out a form of divorce that was permissible according to Jewish Law - if a man found something objectionable in his wife he could present her with a writ of divorce and banish her from his home. Incidentally, there was no provision in Jewish law for a woman to divorce her husband. It was a law which left a woman completely vulnerable to the whims of her husband.

We know from the gospels that Jesus did not condemn those who fell short of his vision for human relationships including marriage. All of us, regardless of whether we're married or single, are called to love one another with the same faithful, unfailing love that God has for us but we're well aware of the challenge that can be because of what we find 'objectionable' in each other.

Perhaps in those moments of challenge we can draw strength from the last line of the second reading – "Jesus is not ashamed to call them [and us] brothers and sisters"

On the Sundays 7, 14 and 21 October a special course of catechesis will be run for teenagers who are yet to be baptised or receive other sacraments but wish to do so.

Often these young people have been to Catholic primary schools but for various reasons have never been initiated into the Catholic Church. This is an opportunity for them to make that move with the support of their parents, Cullinane College and this parish.

The catechesis involves the teenagers attending the 9.30am Mass and staying on for lessons from 11am-1pm lead by Fr Marcus.

If there are teenagers, known to parishioners, who would like to take advantage of this opportunity please contact the parish office or turn up to the first session on Sunday 7 October.

Kia Ora. It was wonderful to see children and their families at the School Mass. Our School Mass acknowledges what is good about St. Marcellin School. It was truly a Children's Mass, when we listen to students recite the prayers in their first language (namely English, Maori, Filipino, Indian, Laos, Samoan and Tongan), observe students altar serving, students reading the scriptures and singing and bringing forth the gifts to Fr. Marcus. All were present to give thanks to the Lord. 33% of our total student roll attended the Mass. In Term 4 we need a huge improvement in attendance for what will be our final School Mass for the year.

On Thursday evening we held our Celebration of Learning- an evening of dance and drama that highlights the epitome of the children's learning in Term 3. The theme was "Globalisation- Hands across the Ocean". It was held at Rutherford Junior High School Hall. Thanks to all who attended.

Many thanks to our priests, parishioners, families and friends who have supported and prayed for the school during what has been a very busy term. Thanks to all who helped plan for and organized the annual Catholic School's Cross Country which we hosted recently. We wish all a very well-deserved break and look forward to your continued support for the final term of the year.
